

The Forest Society of Maine's Attean Circle

We thank you for including the Forest Society of Maine in your estate plans and invite you to join the Attean Circle.

Maine's North Woods have provided livelihoods, recreational opportunities, and environmental benefits for centuries. Thanks to the foresight of the Coburn family, the Forest Society of Maine was established in 1984 to protect those special qualities on 18,000 acres of forestland in Attean, Maine. Their vision to conserve the scenic and ecologically and recreationally valuable lands, while also allowing for a continuous flow of wood products, helped make the Forest Society of Maine what it is today. Attean embodies the cultures and traditions that have made Maine's North Woods so special, and we at the Forest Society of Maine are dedicated to conserving these woods and waters for future generations. While the Attean lands provided the foundation for FSM's beginnings, Attean Circle members are fortifying that base for its future.

If you are interested in joining the Attean Circle of the Forest Society of Maine, please fill in the items below and mail this form back to our office.
